

Grant-writing workshops offered for area nonprofit organizations

Rick Peterson, Reader submitted
Published 4:36 p.m. CT July 27, 2017

(Photo: Getty Images/iStockphoto)

A pair of free community grant-writing workshops will be held in Oshkosh for area nonprofit organizations.

The workshops are sponsored by Lawrence University, in conjunction with United Way Fox Cities and the Community Foundation for the Fox Valley Region.

The upcoming workshop schedule includes:

- Aug. 10, 10:30 a.m. to noon: “Introduction to Proposal Writing Workshop,” James P. Coughlin Center, 625 E. Country Highway Y, Oshkosh.
- Aug. 17, 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.: “Introduction to the Funding Information Network Workshop,” Clow Hall, UW-Oshkosh.
- A second “Introduction to Proposal Writing Workshop” will be held Aug. 23 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at Lawrence University’s Thomas Steitz Hall of Science, Room 202 in Appleton.

Space is limited for all workshops and registration is required. To register, email Svetlana Belova at svetlana.v.belova@lawrence.edu with your name and phone number.

Since May 2015, Lawrence has served as a partner of the Funding Information Network with the Foundation Center of New York to provide resources for area grant seekers. More information about the Funding Information Network at Lawrence may be found at <http://guides.lib.lawrence.edu/funding>.