MENASHA (WLUK) -- Kids and families had a chance to get into the spirit of Valentine's Day, and also have fun on Saturday.

In Menasha, volunteers from the United Way Fox Cities put together fun activities for area kids.

They had people making balloons, making crafts, cookie decorating and even video games for the kids.

This is the 11th year that the United Way Fox Cities have put together this event.

Organizers say that the kids really enjoy it.

"Just seeing all the smiles on the kids' faces. Sometimes, knowing the cold winter, we're stuck at home, or there's not all that many activities to do, and when it's this cold, just to be able to get out and play some games and have fun and be with your family and friends, there's nothing better," said Lori Kaufman, Valentine's Family Festival event chair.

Kids of all ages also had the opportunity to get free books through book giveaways.
